DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 5-16 and 20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vögele (German Patent 21 13 358) in view of Lenker (U.S. Patent 4,181,449).

Vögele discloses a pavement ramp edge maker including a compaction member (3, 6) and a coupling device (2 and bar extending down from 2, adjacent 5). The angle appears to be less than 45 degrees and it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used an angle of less than 45 degrees in order to increase safety for users of the finished product, as is well known in the art. The compaction member is vertically movable, but it is not taught to be movable against a bias. Lenker teaches that it using a bias enhances the quality of an angled layer of pavement (column 5, lines 24-31). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a bias with the apparatus of Vögele for this purpose.

There is a paving material directing member (4).

Regarding claim 7, the coupling device (2, 5) and the piece (not labeled) which extends outwardly from, and in the opposite direction to the compaction member (3), meet the recitation of a pair of support members.

Art Unit: 3671

Regarding claims 8-12, the unlabeled piece has a rounded leading edge adapted to engage the surface. This piece meets the recitations of a trailing directing member.

Regarding claims 12-14, the limitations regarding the edge angle are met by the portion (6) of the compaction member. Regarding the specific angle of 35 degrees, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used this angle in order to increase safety for users of the finished product, as is well known in the art.

Regarding claims 15, 16 and 20-22, there is an end gate (5) and a screed (not labeled).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-4 and 17-19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed December 2, 2004 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
